Martin Klein: "Songs For My Piano" (Street Date: 7th of November 2008, Lindo Rec. Distribution Austria: Hoanzl, International Distribution: cdbaby.com, www.manymusics.org)

A young man is playing piano. Martin Klein - his songs reach a paradox: They are powerful and quiet at the same time. The songs are carried by excellent songwriting and the virtuosity of Martin Klein (piano, vocals), Manuel Brunner (bass) and Benni Lechner (drums) - and they do offer enough space to show Martin Kleins great voice. Some songs (like 'Far Away') show, that the combination of piano and voice works.

Martin Klein comes from Tyrol (western part of Austria), he is in musics since he is nine years old; starting with cello, he soon discovers the piano. "I always liked the sound of this instrument", says Klein. He became a student of the dutch pianist Bert van den Brinck, while living in Utrecht, the Netherlands and he was supporting act for the swedish band Eskobar in Vienna and was the sideman for several others in Germany and the Netherlands. Through the last years Martin Klein managed to built up a fan-base due to lots of gigs throughout Europe, espacially Austria and England. The song "Don't let it get you down" was Martin Kleins contribution the sampler "FM4 Soundselection 17", compiled by the austrian radiostation FM4. Martin Kleins debut-cd is consequently continuing his way.

Press: "A quiet and strong artist. Nice to watch this talent." (skug.at)

"Sometimes you get the chance to hear a young player that you don't know and but who is able to force your attention immediately by the beauty of his music." (Marc van Vugt, the Netherlands)
"... up to the Singer-Songwriter Martin Klein from Vienna, who is appreciated a lot these days..." (monoton.at)
